

Tour New Brunswick

Halifax to Shediac

You'll be heading to the neighbouring province of New Brunswick after leaving the lively port city of Halifax, Nova Scotia. The first stop is Shediac, nicknamed the "Lobster Capital of the World," which offers bay cruises, beach time, and, of course, lobster dinners. It has some of the best white sand beaches and warm waters in Canada; come here to experience a little piece of Canadian paradise and truly enjoy your vacation. There are plenty of ocean-side parking spaces available, but please check them out online and book ahead of time.

Driving Distance – 261 KM

Shediac to Bay of Fundy National Park

Today you'll ride along Highway NB-114 S to Fundy National Park. Visit the same coastal spot at high tide and then return about six hours later at low tide to see the incredible tides of the Bay of Fundy. Check the tide schedule at Hopewell Cape or Alma Village.

Spend the night at Fundy National Park, which has over 120 kilometres (75 miles) of hiking and walking trails. Bennett Lake is a beautiful place to swim, picnic, or hire a canoe.

Driving Distance – 106 KM

Fundy National Park to Saint John

Travel to Saint John for a waterfront city experience after a few days of awe-inspiring ocean-side time. Enjoy the downtown area on foot and pay a visit to Canada's oldest continuously operating farmer's market, The Saint John City Market, where a regular bell rings to signal the start and end of the business day. Attend an exhibition or concert at the Imperial Theatre, a grand century-old structure. If you want to take in the feeling of the tide changing again, stop at the Reversing Falls Bridge.

Driving Distance – 111 KM

Saint John to Halifax

Enjoy the maritime journey along the Trans-Canada highway on your way back to Halifax, and make a lunch stop in Amherst, Nova Scotia. Halifax's waterfront and pier offer breathtaking views, delectable cuisine, and some of the finest live music in the Maritimes. Take a Harbour Hopper Tour to get a bird's eye view of the city from the water. Halifax is known for having the most bars per capita of any Canadian city; maybe a pub crawl would be the perfect way to round off your epic east coast adventure!
