Griffintown and the Lachine Canal – Discover a transformed neighborhood and the history of the Lachine Canal. As a recognized national historic site, learn about the canal's evolution from an industrial hub to a lush urban park.

Furthermore, uncover how the canal influenced the development of adjacent regions such as Griffintown, where Irish immigrants settled, and how the industries situated along the canal contributed to Montreal's rise as Canada's premier city in the 19th century.

Embark on a fascinating and picturesque journey filled with captivating insights.

Hochelaga-Maisonneuve – Located east of downtown, the previous township of Hochelaga, which merged with Montréal in 1883, sits adjacent to Maisonneuve - a subdivision of Hochelaga - which was annexed in 1918. These two blue-collar districts share a history of industry and a close-knit community.

Take a leisurely walk along Ontario Street and pause to experience the ambiance at Maisonneuve Market. Amidst the repurposed factory edifices, magnificent places of worship, and magnificent Beaux-Arts structures, you'll discover a narrative of perseverance, aspiration, and the ideal of a model city.

Little Italy – Join our guide for an exceptional excursion through a land of delectable pasta, fine wine, and the sweet life - all within Montréal! This immersive journey into the heart of Little Italy offers a glimpse into a vibrant and long-standing community. Experience Bella Italia, Montréal style!

Explore the enchanting trattorias, boutiques, and cafes along Dante Street and Saint-Laurent Boulevard, and bask in the distinctive atmosphere of Little Italy. Don't miss the chance to visit the renowned Jean-Talon Market and, upon request and subject to availability, the Madonna Della Difesa church.

Mile End – The Mile End district was once the epicenter of the textile industry, but today it stands out as one of the most fashionable and diverse neighborhoods in Montréal. Join your guide for a stroll along Bernard or Fairmount Avenue and soak up the area's artistic energy and bohemian vibe.

This dynamic quarter boasts a plethora of tempting eateries, cafes, boutiques, and vintage shops. Gain insights into its past as a blue-collar industrial hub, the origin of its name, its thriving artistic and multicultural scene, its landmarks, and its hidden gems. In essence, discover what sets the Mile End apart as a truly exceptional locale.

Plateau Mont-Royal – The Plateau Mont-Royal is a trendy neighborhood frequented by artists, young professionals, and intellectuals. It's a hub where chic cafes, stylish boutiques, refined tastes, and a zest for life converge to create an alluring fusion. Just a stone's throw away from downtown, this is the perfect place to experience the authentic lifestyle of Montrealers and bask in the city's warm hospitality.

While exploring the area's backstreets, you'll also uncover Montreal's lesser-known side through captivating stories and urban legends. Expect to stumble upon secret gardens, carriage gates, sheds, clotheslines, pawprints, murals, and graffiti - all on the itinerary.

China Town – Embarking on a leisurely walk-through Chinatown is undoubtedly the most captivating way to uncover the fascinating history of this community and to fully savor the distinctive sights, sounds, and aromas that permeate this vibrant neighborhood. As one of the many gems in Montréal's multicultural mosaic, this lively quarter contributes significantly to the city's cosmopolitan character.

Fun fact: did you know that walking through the "Portal of the Sun" is believed to bring good fortune and prosperity? Accompanied by your guide, delve deeper into the rich history of Chinese immigration and gain insight into how this community has assimilated into the fabric of the city.

Golden Square Mile – In the late 19th century, a mere one square mile area situated on the slopes of Mount Royal was home to approximately 70% of Canada's wealth, which was controlled by a select few. Join your guide on a fascinating journey to explore the streets and houses that harken back to this opulent era in Montréal's history.

During the walk, take in the grandeur and opulence of the diverse architectural styles that pepper the neighborhood. From Italian Neo-Renaissance and Classical Revival to Château Style and an array of Victorian eclecticism, there's a smorgasbord of styles to admire!
